

Florence Area Literacy Council

presents

“A Novel Event”

March 6, 2010

Florence Country Club

6:30 P.M.

What is “A Novel Event”?

“A Novel Event” is a benefit to raise funds to fight adult illiteracy in our community.

Why is “A Novel Event” so important?

Since its founding over 30 years ago the Florence Area Literacy Council has assisted thousands of adult learners with improving their reading skills, GED preparation, Armed Services testing preparation. Our mission is to help the 33% of Florence County adults that function at a low level of literacy and help them become more independent more productive citizens and parents. As our signature fundraising event, “A Novel Event”, provides opportunities for raising the necessary funds to keep our doors open to people in need.

Join the fight to stop the cycle of illiteracy!

How does “A Novel Event” work?

Have you always wanted to live the life of your favorite book character? Well, here’s your chance to enjoy an evening with friends and coworkers. There are no formalities, just great fun!!

Generous, fun-loving people just like you will:

- Choose a novel, children’s book, reference book...
- Decorate their table according to the theme of their chosen Novel
- Come dressed as the characters from that Novel
- Have a wonderful time dancing to great music, enjoying a delicious dinner, open bar and bidding on unique auction items!!

Don’t miss out on the fun, join us on Saturday, March 6, 2010 for “A Novel Event” and help us stop the cycle of illiteracy!

Questions?

Contact Christina Lawson at the Florence Area Literacy Council by phone at 843-667-1908 or by email at florenceliteracy@yahoo.com

Florence Area Literacy Council
A United Way Agency